Many footwear brands have different manufacturing companies offering different types of footwear. And choosing the best shoes for your feet and getting style and comfort isn't easy. So here are the top 10 things to help you buy footwear that perfectly matches your needs and feet.

1) Right fitting

Fitting is important when selecting any footwear. You can measure your feet every time you get a new shoe which will help you to understand the current size of your feet and choose the pair of footwear accordingly. Also, remember to select the exact shoe size that fits you and never go with tight-fitting or buy bigger shoes thinking of the future.

2) Choose carefully before purchasing

One should never buy footwear in a hurry. When you're buying the proper footwear you need time and attention to have enough time on your hand when you go footwear shopping, so you could experiment with different shoes and observe them before purchasing.

3) Try options

You should Try footwear before buying one. It is very important. You should always wear different pairs of footwear and check the fitting and comfort level before purchasing footwear.

You can also wear the shoes and walk for a while to understand if they are comfortable for waking or not. Also, remember to wear footwear on both feet to check if there is any difference between their size or comfort standards.

4) Check Material

Nowadays, you can get different kinds of footwear made of different materials. And you need to pick footwear with comfortable material for a better wearing experience. You should select the footwear material depending on the comfort, usage, weather and the landscape you live in.

5) Time durability

The durability of your footwear is paramount. You should always check the durability before buying footwear. Indian climates are primarily harsh and different types whether it is monsoon, summer or winter. That is why you should always check the durability, especially if you are looking for everyday use whatever weather is going on.

6) Look at the finishing product

Another important thing you need to remember while buying footwear is to check the finishing of the footwear. Look at the stitches, sole style, etc to ensure you buy the best footwear.

7) Know about the manufacturer

Checking a manufacturer's details is also an important thing before buying footwear. Choose a good brand and recognized manufacturing company, as they offer quality footwear at affordable prices.

The right running shoes provide the proper grip for your entire feet and can help prevent injuries and make it far more enjoyable to log those miles. If you are buying shoes for specific requirements, for example running or a marathon then, here are the key points to help you find the right shoes for running or a marathon or formal shoes.

Tips to buy Running Shoes

1. The surface you run on makes a difference in what type of shoes you should choose for running or casual.

- For standard road running such as sidewalks, and treadmills you can find various levels of cushioning and stability in shoes.

- Trail shoes have larger lugs to grip better on loose or rocky terrain and may have a rock plate to protect your foot when you step on sharp rocks. If you run trails and roads you will want to purchase separate pairs of shoes that match the needs of each land.

2. Decide if you want more or less cushioning under footwear.
3. Understand whether you need a specific type of support for your gait in footwear.
4. Comfortability is of utmost importance for shoe fit.
5. Trying on your shoes and walking even best is, lightly running around the store to make sure they feel comfortable.
6. Pay attention to the shoe's arch and upper materials to ensure you do not notice any major pain spots in the toe.

Tips to buy Marathon Shoes

- Choose a Running-Specific Shoe
- The more cushion a shoe has while supporting your body's natural motion path is helpful for running long distances, whether training or racing area.
- Choosing shoes according to the flat to minimize injury and optimize your running performance.
- The lightweight Shoe is for a marathon and makes your feet feel comfortable and flexible while running

Tips to buy Formal Shoes

Before you buy a pair of formal shoes, keep these 3 tips in mind.

1. Choose The Right Fabric

Leather is popular for formal footwear and is known for its ability to last longer than its alternatives. However, climate conditions are also important because non-leather choices are a better choice for wet weather.

2. Classics

If you have too many options to choose from but you're clueless, go for a classic style. You can define it by closed lacing, a rounded front and/or patterning, it can't be beaten no matter the occasion.

3. Choose a good colour

Gone are the days when formal shoes were only in blacks and browns. Today, you can take your pick from greys and blues to tans and maroons it completely depends on your tastes
