

All the pharma sectors and industries need to global collaboration

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, a global collaboration of the pharma sectors from research and development in drug manufacture now becomes the greatest step. It is reported by industry leaders and officials from India and the United States. In the 14th edition of the annual BioPharma and Healthcare Summit, where stakeholders and officials from India and the United States discussed global collaboration.