

Banks to RBI: COVID-19 Hit Businesses May Need loan Restructuring

Banks have told the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) that the protracted curbs because of the second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic have resulted in significant stress on businesses and that such companies may need a restructuring of loans.

Banks have told the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) that the protracted curbs because of the second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic have resulted in significant stress on businesses and that such companies may need a restructuring of loans.