

Disneyland Reduced 28,000 parks unit employees due to Covid-19

Disney shut its theme parks worldwide when the crisis coronavirus starts spreading this year. All best-loved places, Disneyland – reopened, though the company was forced to limit visitors to maintain physical distance. In a letter to employees, said " Josh D'Amaro, chairman of the parks unit, has made the very tough decision to begin the process of decreasing our workforce at our Parks.