

SpaceX's Dragon Crew to docks at space station

On Sunday, SpaceX tweeted that it was SpaceX's first Crew Dragon spaceship to carry two NASA astronauts Robert Behnken and Douglas Hurley to dock with the International Space Station. For SpaceX, it will be a first-ever crew mission. The Crew Dragon docked itself at 10:16 a.m. EDT at the space station in Florida. The Spacecraft will be staying in the orbit for 210 days.
